Surviving Mr. Taylor are a brother, Mason Taylor; and two step-children.

RTD Car Display Planned

A Rapid Transit Design Car—similar to those that will operate here if voters approve Rapid Transit financing Nov. 5—will be placed on exhibit at South Bay Shopping Center Tuesday.

The ultramodern car will be on display in the northwest parking area and will remain on exhibit through Labor Day.

Formal opening of the display will be at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Dave Hayward, Southern California Rapid Transit District Director representing area cities, announced.

THE CAR will be open from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., including Sunday and Labor Day.

John Preis, president of South Bay Center Merchants Association, and James Wood, President of Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce, will be among civic and business leaders participating in the opening day program.

THE ULTRAMODERN design car was developed at a cost of $500,000 by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District and was model for the Rapid Transit system now being constructed in San Francisco. It is on loan to Rapid Transit District.

The carpeted, air-conditioned train is equipped with foam rubber seats, large picture windows, soft lights and a charcoal-rust brown decor.

Resolution Commends New Water Replenishment Group

A resolution commending the Central and West Basin Water Replenishment District and other agencies has been submitted to the Legislature by Assemblyman Larry E. Townsend (D-Torrance).

Townsend said the resolution specifically recognizes the "immeasurable values which can accrue to the citizens of Los Angeles County" as a result of the formation of the Joint Committee on Solid Waste Disposal Problems by the agencies concerned.

Prior to June 21, 1968, when the committee was formed, there existed no common forum or other organization, he said, for the WALTER YOUNG, counsel for Nollac, said it was a "play on words" to call the drainage work a public contract. It's none of the city's business, Young said, how a subdivider awards contracts for work done on his tract.

Nollac conceded that the work was done on streets dedicated to the city by the subdivider, but noted that the land was still unimproved at the time. He said that a developer's improvements are strictly his own until they are accepted by the city.

Ferraro verified that he had concurred with the reimbursement at the time, but that "to concur is not to approve." He said that he cannot check every decision personally; he must rely on his subordinates.

"WASN'T the $6,455 paid by South Bay Riviera merely a refund of cash put up by the subdivider?" Young asked Ferraro.

"It's not that simple," Ferraro replied.

Ferraro also stated that he doesn't know if the figures quoted by South Bay Riviera are valid or not, but said he has no proof they are not valid.

FERRARO claimed that he never knew of Nollac's boat co-ownership with Batrum until last July 16, when an unnamed individual informed him of the arrangement. However, the city manager said he knew about the boat and was aware that Nollac had been seeking a partner on the boat enterprise several years ago.

Nollac contradicted Ferraro, testifying that he had informed the city manager about his arrangement with Batrum shortly after the deal was closed. Nollac said he had invited Ferraro to join him on a cruise but that the city manager declined because he gets "seasick."

The public works director also testified that he made no attempt to hide the liaison with Batrum, although he never formally made the deal known to the City Coun or Planning Commission. He added, however, that he had openly asked many city employees, including Ferraro, to become a partner in the boat when he first considered buying it.

PLANNING Commissioner Kenny Uyeda testified that he knew of the deal and questioned Nollac's judgment, but never questioned his integrity.

The boat in question, named the "Bajil," is of pre-World War II vintage and cost a total of $1,950. The six-cylinder craft was termed "a good local fishing boat" by Nollac.

exchange of ideas or information concerning the effect of solid waste management and disposal upon the total environment in the county.

Recognizing this need, Townsend said, 33 officials of various state, county, district and municipal agencies met in the offices of the Water Replenishment District in Downey to form the joint committee.

The resolution also request all state agencies concerned with the problems of solid waste management and disposal practices to cooperate with the joint committee.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Computer Selects Those Returns for Tax Audits

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

I've been audited several times, but none of my friends have been audited once. Am I on a black list or something?

No, you are not. Computers screen all returns and identify those with certain characteristics for examination.

When your return, or the returns filed by your friends are processed, the computers are prepared to look for certain characteristics. There is no "blacklist" used by IRS to identify returns for examination.

Can I have my tax withholding reduced when I reach 65?

Yes, persons 65 and over may claim an additional exemption for income tax withholding purposes. To do this fill out a new Form W-4, Employees Withholding Exemption Certificate, and give it to your employer. He will tell you when the change will go into effect.

Our apartment was rifled by burglars while we were away on vacation. Since we do not have insurance, can we deduct our losses for tax purposes?

Yes, a deduction for a theft can be taken on your return. However, only the loss in excess of $100 can be deducted.

To establish a theft loss you must be able to: (1) show the date the theft was discovered; (2) show the property was stolen and not lost or mislaid; (3) establish ownership; (4) show evidence of the cost or other basis of the property; (5) show any amount taken or allowable for depreciation; and (6) show the amount of insurance or other compensation for the loss received or recoverable.

My mother gave me title to her home as a present. Will any tax be involved?

Gifts are not taxable to the person receiving them. However, the person making the gift may be liable for gift tax if the value of the gifts to one person is more than $3,000 in any one year.

The gift tax law also allows each person to make a total of $30,000 in tax free gifts which may be spread over a period of years or used in any other year in addition to the $3000 annual exclusion. Your mother may be entitled to use this provision of the law in the situation you describe.

Do I have to do anything with the stubs I receive when I deposit income and social security taxes I take out of my employees' wages?

The stub you receive when you make a deposit through the federal tax deposit system is for your records only. It should not be filed with your quarterly Form 941 return.

I took a second job this summer and social security tax is being taken out of my pay. Can I stop this withholding since the maximum will be taken out for social security on my regular job?

No, The law requires each employer to withhold social security tax on the first $7,800 in wages paid each employee. If more than the maximum has been withheld from your combined salaries, then the excess may be taken as a credit on your income tax return.

I'm attending a church convention as a delegate this summer. Can I take a my expenses?

If you are attending as an official delegate you may deduct as a charitable contribution your unreimbursed travel expenses including meals and lodging. Other personal expenses should not be included nor should the expenses of your family if they go with you.

Players Set 'Iguana'

Casting for the Kentwood Players production of Tennessee Williams' "Night of the Iguana" has been completed.

The play, a hard-hitting and absorbing drama which takes place in a cheap Mexican resort hotel, is scheduled to open Friday, Sept. 13.

istration will mushroom from a simple matter of signing a form into an annual ritual involving bigger and bigger registration fees. There's always the possibility that the registration of guns will turn into a tax fund-raiser, just as it has with car registration.

Although he says he's amenable to the idea of registration, Perkovich sees a basic problem in the degree of regulation and registration that pervades society as a whole today. "We're wired-in in 99 ways right now," Perkovich exclaimed. "We're all being put on IBM cards and we resent it," he said. "Many people feel it's just another way of cataloging you, restricting you."

PERKOVICH said he feels the public should have more faith in police authorities to protect them. "If you are carrying a gun in downtown Los Angeles or New York, you're really saying that the police can't protect you. We've got good police work," Perkovich stressed.

However, he doesn't believe it's too far fetched to think that individual citizens might someday need their private firearms to defend the country. "It's a reason, not without merit," Perkovich stated.
